Annual Report of the Post-Graduation First
Destination Survey
Class of 2020

INTRODUCTION

This report provides data related to Seton Hill University student post-graduation outcomes for the class of 2020. The information represented in this report includes only first-destination data secured within six months to one year after graduation. This report adheres to the standards and protocols for collecting first-destination data set forth by the National Association of Colleges and Employers (NACE).

The Seton Hill University Class of 2020 includes the following graduates: August 2019, December 2019, and May 2020. A total of 397 students, consisting of undergraduate and graduate students were contacted to complete the 2020 Post Graduation First Destination Survey. Of the 296 undergraduate students, the Career and Professional Development Center staff determined the post-graduation outcomes for 280 students. This is a knowledge rate of 95%. For graduate students, the Career and Professional Development Center staff determined the post-graduation outcomes for all 101 students resulting in a 100% knowledge rate. The minimum national average knowledge rate for reporting purposes is 65%.

Students were surveyed through the First Destination Survey module of the Handshake career management system. Information was also obtained through faculty, staff, social media, direct phone calls, and email messages.

THE IMPACT OF THE COVID PANDEMIC ON STUDENT OUTCOMES

While many Seton Hill graduates successfully secured their post-graduation goals amid the COVID pandemic it is important to recognize that the pandemic has had a temporary impact on certain populations of students seeking employment opportunities. Specifically, Physician Assistant program majors and majors In the Visual and Performing Arts.

Physician Assistant Program Graduates

Healthcare jobs in general have been on the rise for decades, and Physician Assistants continue to hold one of the top positions in terms of job outlook. However, COVID has had a clear impact on healthcare employment. According to the Bureau of Labor and Statistics, in April 2020 alone, healthcare employment declined by 1.4 million jobs. About 448,000 of those were in physician and other healthcare offices. Positions are being furloughed and hiring freezes are in place.

Patient volume will increase again as physicians begin to see patients who have been put on hold for non-urgent visits and procedures. The Bureau of Labor and Statistics has indicated that we may even see a surge in healthcare hiring. We also know the physician shortage was present before COVID and will be present after. There is still a need for quality and affordable healthcare. Physician Assistants were and will continue to be part of the solution as we move forward. In the meantime, graduates will need to be patient and willing to stretch themselves. They may need to consider locations and specialties that were not on their radar prior to the COVID pandemic.

Visual and Performing Arts Program Graduates

The COVID pandemic has had a substantial impact on the arts and cultural heritage sector. The global health crisis has profoundly affected organizational operations as well as individuals—both employed and independent—across the sector. By March 2020, most cultural institutions across the world were indefinitely closed, and in-person exhibitions, events, and performances were cancelled or postponed. Many are not slated to resume operations until summer 2021 at the earliest. This has resulted in job offers being rescinded and hiring coming to a temporary halt.

In response, the Career and Professional Development Center at Seton Hill University has been in contact with each recent graduate seeking employment to offer support and job search strategies. To supplement these efforts, , a weekly email is sent to all students listing current employment opportunities specific to their academic major. Career and Professional Development Center services and resources are a lifetime benefit available to all Seton Hill alumni and the staff will continue to support our students through their job searches.
